

HELP

RUSSIAN SCHOOL VICTIMS

International Foundation For Terror Act Victims (moscowhelp.org) has initiated a national fundraising campaign to help the victims of the horrific terror act in Beslan, Russia. With over 300 dead and 700 wounded, most of them children, this tragedy is Russia's September 11th, and urgent financial assistance is needed to help alleviate the suffering of injured and orphaned children.

The Fund is the only international charity organization that is currently committed specifically to helping children of the Beslan tragedy. The Fund is run by a group of volunteers and incurs no administrative or other expenses related to personal donations. All money donated is delivered directly to victims' families.

Donors can make their contributions by check, credit card or wire transfer. Instructions for making a donation, as well as many ways to provide additional assistance, are posted on the Fund's web site at www.moscowhelp.org.

The Fund has a proven track record of helping terror act victims in Russia. Originally established to provide assistance to the families of hostages who perished in the Moscow Nord-Ost theater siege terrorist act in 2002, the Fund has successfully completed that project with all donated funds fully distributed to victims' families.
